

The present permanent exhibition of the Museum. Concerning the exhibition “Fábricas de Sons” (Sound Makers), it is noticeable the need for renewal and the desire to hold to account of almost eight years of the Museum’s existence. Hence, it seeks to offer a new vision of its holdings by including more musical instruments (not only European, but also African and Asian), grouped by families or in accordance with classification norms. In the selection of display items it seeks once again to give priority to pieces that are well-made and of aesthetic value, placing particular emphasis in each section on musical instruments of Portuguese manufacture.
